Prevailing Wage Seminar for Public Agencies and Contractors

El Monte, CA—Public Agencies and Contractors are invited to attend our free prevailing wage seminar to be informed on public works requirements. These seminars are co-hosted by The Labor Commissioner's Office and the Center for Contract Compliance (CCC). The seminars will provide an overview of prevailing wage compliance and public works enforcement. Discussions will include apprenticeship standards requirements, coverage determinations, certified payroll reporting, contractor registration, prequalification of contractors, skilled and trained workforce requirements, and project registration (PWC-100).

Due to Covid- 19 and safety concerns our next seminar will be a webinar September 24th at 8:45-1pm. Register at www.socalccc.org/registration. This webinar is recommended for anyone involved and/or new to Public Works.

The CCC works with local, state, and federal agencies to combat the underground economy. In this collaborative effort, the CCC provides information and resources to ensure law-abiding contractors can bid on a level playing field for public works contracts. The CCC focuses on issues related to prevailing wage, meal and rest periods, travel and subsistence, safety, apprenticeship, contractor licensing, and workers compensation premium fraud. The CCC is committed to outreach and education, and provides information to workers, employers, and public agencies without cost.

Last year we worked alongside The Labor Commissioner's Office on previous seminars throughout Southern California reaching up to thousands of attendees. Reserve your seat today.
